

Quotes About Muslim Religion

James Hastings, John Alexander Selbie, Louis Herbert Gray

Indonesian Muslims in a Global World Teuku Zulfikar, 2017-08-21 Muslim communities in non-Muslim countries, and particularly their younger members, have been an interesting topic in academia recently. Many books and journal articles have been written on the identity issues of young Muslims, and this book serves to enrich previous literature on this important issue. It highlights Indonesian Muslims' experience of living in between their home and their host society, namely Australia. However, the study differs in some respects from other books on similar issues, describing Muslim identity through the viewpoints of the sacred book of Islam, the Qur'an, and also as described by scholars investigating the identity construction of young Muslims. The book suggests an essentialized understanding of Muslim identity as described in the sacred text, but at the same time recognizes that discourses and agencies influence the way in which a community projects itself.

Subalternity and Religion Milind Wakankar, 2010-02-25 This book explores the relation between mainstream and marginal or subaltern religious practice in the Indian subcontinent. Keeping in view the power and reach of genocidal Hinduism, this book is the first to look at how the religion of marginal communities at once affirms and turns away from secularised religion.

The Muslim Majority Robin Hadaway, 2021-09-15 More than 70 percent of Muslims worldwide practice folk Islam, a syncretistic mix of theologically orthodox Islam and traditional religious beliefs and practices. The Muslim Majority is unlike many published works on evangelism to Muslims, which argue for either apologetic or contextualized "bridge" approaches. These approaches are often ineffective in reaching adherents of popular Islam. Instead, author and missiologist Robin Hadaway outlines a contextual approach that addresses the unique perspective of popular Islam. Hadaway explains the differences between folk Islam and orthodox Islam and explores best practices for reaching the vast majority of Muslims with the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Smart People about Islam Joey Steel, 2017-10-04 This first edition of Smart People About Islam by beloved author and pioneering professor Joey Steel, is the instant classic for introducing the essential viewpoints and teachings of one of the world's predominant faiths, Islam. In a time where terror has come to the heart of Western civilization, the necessity of this eye-opening collection of third party quotes and memes is clear. Through the combination of clear, succinct opinions and all-but-funny cartoons, Joey Steel has created a remarkable work on Islam, which should appeal to a wide range of readers interested in Islamic culture and public opinion. Documenting particular parts of the Qur'an, the Arab Spring, Sunni and Shia, modern interpretations of Islamic literature and the reaction of the general public, Smart People About Islam rightfully continues to be the bestselling of all Smart People About books, and will continue to be for quite some time. This will be the book you will be discussing for weeks with your friends and will be the most thought-provoking piece you'll have read all year.

Religion: the Failed Narrative Richard C. Johnson, 2011-01-13 God emerges like a hologram in our consciousness and is falsely presented as the champion who will save us from death. Science, with its focused methodology, tells the true story. God is the main character in religion, but he is a figment of the imagination. Humans experience consciousness like amnesia victims: We don't know where we came from or why we are here, and we fantasize that we keep on living after our bodies physically die. Thus humanity turns to religion, a powerful source of consolation and comfort. Science, however, offers some more concrete answers. Author Richard C. Johnson argues that God emerges as an adjunct of human consciousness, where he is conjured up in response to the isolation engendered by self-awareness. Huge conflict results, Johnson explains, because claims about God are made from doctrine rather than observation. The result of these conflicts has consistently been war. In an age of nuclear weapons and terrorism, religious conflict must be deconstructed by honest discussion. Johnson explores this seemingly impossible task and proposes methods by which it can be accomplished. In Religion: The Failed Narrative, Johnson convinces us that irrational religion cannot guide us and that only rational science has proven to be a capable leader.

Treasury of Religious Quotations Gerald Tomlinson, 1991

Religion and Knowledge Elisabeth Arweck, 2016-04-15 Religions have always been associated with particular forms of knowledge, often knowledge accorded special significance and sometimes knowledge at odds with prevailing understandings of truth and authority in wider society. New religious movements emerge on the basis of reformulated, often controversial, understandings of how the world works and where ultimate meaning can be found. Governments have risen and fallen on the basis of such differences and global conflict has raged around competing claims about the origins and content of religious truth. Such concerns give rise to recurrent questions, faced by academics, governments and the general public. How do we treat statements made by religious groups and on what basis are they made? What authorities lie behind religious claims to truth? How can competing claims about knowledge be resolved? Are there instances when it is appropriate to police religious knowledge claims or restrict their public expression? This book addresses the relationship between religion and knowledge from a sociological perspective, taking both religion and knowledge as phenomena located within ever changing social contexts. It builds on historical foundations, but offers a distinctive focus on the changing status of religious phenomena at the turn of the twenty-first century. Including critical engagement with live debates about intelligent design and the 'new atheism', this collection of essays brings recent research on religious movements into conversation with debates about socialisation, reflexivity and the changing capacity of social institutions to shape human identities. Contributors examine religion as an institutional context for the production of knowledge, as a form of knowledge to be transmitted or conveyed and as a social field in which controversies about knowledge emerge.

World Peace through Christian-Muslim Understanding Sarah Markiewicz, 2016-10-10 The open letter A Common Word Between Us and You (Amman, 2007) is a unique example of Christian-Muslim dialogue. The central message behind ACW is that the future of the world depends on peace between Muslims and Christians. ACW aims to achieve political change through theological argumentation. An improvement in Islam-West relations can be indirectly achieved through a focus on improving Christian-Muslim relations. This study investigates the genesis and fruits of ACW, highlighting the importance of a specific historical and sociopolitical Sitz im Leben which decisively influenced its form and content.

Encyclopædia of Religion and Ethics: Sacrifice-Sudra James Hastings, John Alexander Selbie, Louis Herbert Gray, 1920
Scope: theology, philosophy, ethics of various religions and ethical systems and relevant portions of anthropology, mythology, folklore, biology, psychology, economics and sociology.

Islam Through Quotations Kamal-Eldin Hassan, 2006-04 This book is written for Muslims living outside of Islamic countries and do not know the Arabic language so they may understand, with the least effort, the basic principles and spirit of their religion. With so many misrepresentations about Islam; this book should also be useful to non-Muslims to understand Islam, and Muslims, better. The word 'Islam' means peace, submission to God's will and obedience to His laws. It is based mainly on the Quran revealed by God to His Messenger and Prophet Mohamed and the Prophet's application of the rules thus revealed. Islam is the continuation of all former religious principles decreed by God through His revelations to all prophets. The prophets include Moses, Jesus Christ (as a prophet but not as a divine) and many of the prophets and leaders of the Old Testament. Unlike other religions, there is no titular head, clergy, nor priesthood in all of Islam.
