In Our Own Words Student Book Rebecca Mlynarczyk, Steven B. Haber, 2005-04-04 In Our Own Words takes the unique approach of using student writing as a resource for writing instruction and idea development. The defining characteristic of this unique high-intermediate to advanced writing text is the use of non-native student writing to teach writing. This feature makes the text easily accessible to and popular with students. The third edition features 15 new readings by student writers, five new readings by professional writers, updated writing topics, Internet activities to support the writing process, and contextualized revising and editing activities.

The Impact of New Fertility Policies on Early Education and Development in China Xiumin Hong, Yong Jiang, Li Luo, Philip Hui Li, 2023-12-04 This book is among the first to comprehensively examine the far-reaching impact of China's new fertility policies on early education and development. Since the beginning of the 21st century, China has entered a period of declining fertility rate and aging population, which poses a serious threat to its sustainable development. To address this crisis, China has radically revised its fertility policy through the state's guidance for regulating couples' reproductive choices, abandoning its iconic one-child policy, and adopting the selective two-child (2013), universal two-child (2016), and then the three-child (2021) policy. Drawing on empirical evidence obtained through various research methods, this book offers multidisciplinary perspectives on the far-reaching impact of these policies. Part I summarizes the lessons learned from new fertility policies and identifies important directions for future research. Focusing on two major microsystems, part II presents research assessing families' fertility desire for an additional child and projecting the demand for preschool education. Part III attends to family dynamics and their relation to early learning and development for both only and non-only children. Part IV addresses the importance of expanding access to affordable and high-quality early childhood education and care for children from birth through age 6. The Impact of New Fertility Policies on Early Education and Development in China contributes to policy development and practical improvement and serves as a catalyst to stimulate future studies on the topic. It will be a valuable resource for researchers, policymakers, and practitioners of early childhood education and care, as well as for families of young children. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Early Education and Development.

The (Un)Making of the Modern Family Daniel Dagenais, 2009-05-01 The family institution is undergoing a radical transformation. The modern meanings of kinship, marriage, parenthood, gender, and sexuality are now being questioned, and debates on same-sex marriages and parenthood or on divorce and blended families are reflective of these challenges. The (Un)Making of the Modern Family is neither an indictment of the new family nor a rallying cry. It is a classical exercise of family sociology that draws upon a range of disciplines – history, anthropology, psychology, and demography – to provide an interpretive model for understanding contemporary changes in the family. It explores traditional family forms in order to identify changes that gave birth to the ideal type of the modern family, and it discusses how the modern family's constituent elements (the family as institution, conjugal and parent-child relationships, and gender and sexuality) relate to modernity's central feature – the concept of the individual. By reconstructing an archetype of the modern family, this book explains why individuals have experienced its deconstruction as a profound identity crisis. It will appeal to anyone concerned with the future of the (post)modern family and society. Published originally by Les Presses de l'Université Laval as La fin de la famille moderne, this book was awarded the 2000-1 Prix Jean-Charles Falardeau for the best book published in French in Canada in the field of social sciences.

Crowded Equations: Shifting Gender Struggles Leo Odom, 2025-03-20 In a world where numbers skyrocket and natural resources dwindle, the delicate balance between genders is put to the test. This riveting book delves into the complex web of gender dynamics within an overpopulated society. Through a meticulously crafted exploration, the author dissects the intricate ways in which overpopulation amplifies existing gender roles, exacerbates existing inequalities, and narrows opportunities. In a thought-provoking narrative, the reader is guided through a comprehensive examination of how this overcrowded world reshapes power dynamics between men and women. Delving into the subtleties of societal expectations, the book uncovers the intensified pressures, limited choices, and stifled potentials that individuals must confront. With piercing clarity, the author examines the profound impacts of overpopulation on reproductive rights, education, employment opportunities, and access to resources. Punctuated with compelling anecdotes and extensive research findings, the book presents a convincing case for reevaluating our understanding of gender in the face of mass proliferation. Through poignant storytelling and enlightening analysis, the intricate entanglement of gender and overpopulation is unraveled. This unique exploration unveils the hidden recesses of societal norms, unveiling the transformative power of population size in shaping collective ideologies.

Values, Political Action, and Change in the Middle East and the Arab Spring Mansoor Moaddel, Michele J. Gelfand, 2017 With 'change' serving as the central theme of this edited volume, contributing authors have advanced new and insightful frameworks to analyze vast empirical data in order to explain the dynamics of cross-national variation, values, political engagement, morality, and development in the Middle East and North Africa in light of the Arab Spring. Methodological issues in survey research are also addressed in this volume.

Fundamentals of Sociology Vidya Bhushan,D. R. Sachdeva,2012 Fundamentals of Sociology is a textbook for undergraduate students of sociology. This book comprehensively explains the basics of sociology, including social concepts, institutions and the theories of prominent thinkers. Importance has also been given to various important approaches to sociology, including women and society, social change and the role of social legislation in social change. The book is designed keeping in mind the students' needs. Therefore, every unit is divided into chapters, which are further divided into subtopics. Every chapter ends with a number of questions for the students' practice. The book contains an exhaustive list of suggested readings for students who wish to explore this subject further.

Marketplace Behaviour of Malaysian Consumers Nelson Oly Ndubisi,2006 Six varied papers on marketing issues in Malaysia - an interesting mix of research. Two papers address internet banking and consumers' attitudes to operating their accounts and financial business in this way. One paper looks at consumers' response to sales promotional tools and another at effects of gender on purchase decisions. The two final papers look at the influence of the family structure on purchase decisions and the ways in which Malaysian customers articulate their dissatisfaction. A useful adjunct for anyone looking to market in this region.
