Naked and Unashamed Matthew Everard Thomas, 2024-06-27 At times, most of us would have felt that there is something not quite right with our soul. Our life may be meandering along without too many bumps on the road. We may be content with how our life is panning out. Our relationships may be stable, and our physical health is relatively good. And yet the rich and satisfying life that could potentially be ours seems to illude us. We may sense that there could be so much more to life than what we are currently experiencing. But we don't quite know what to do or how to get there. As a result of past experiences of rejection and abandonment, we may crave acceptance and significance from our relationships and our work and yet we find the craving to never be satisfied. We may attempt to fill that void in our souls through other means such as status and outward achievements. But those too never seem to be able to deliver what they promise. When we remain disconnected from our true selves, we will never be able to identify the root cause of our shame. We may never even be aware that shame has pervaded our souls. As our eyes begin to see ourselves for who we really are, it requires humility and courage to step out into the light and cultivate intimacy with our Creator who can begin to cleanse us of the deep pain that shame has caused us. Healing from shame is never complete without immersing ourselves in genuinely caring and compassionate communities who are willing to love and accept us just as we are. Finding true acceptance and significance in such communities go a long way towards uprooting the pervasiveness nature of shame and reinstating the God-given value, dignity and worth we possess.

Courage to Deal with the Crap Judith Delp Moliterno, 2025-02-25 As the introduction expresses, Let's be honest, sometimes life sucks! The circumstances we find ourselves facing can seem daunting, overwhelming, and at times unfair. We wonder what we have done to deserve the feelings or circumstances we are experiencing. We sometimes feel as if day-to-day survival is an exhausting struggle. How are we supposed to cope, let alone live? Is there really hope for a decent existence as we meander through this life with its challenges? How can we make any sense out of our messy predicaments? Using her personal trials, losses, physical and emotional suffering, the author discusses grieving, processing loss, and pain. The primary message of the book is: in the midst of our messes--there is hope. Personal stories of frustration, desperation, and how the author found hope and purpose provide the reader with several examples of crappy situations and the courage required to face them. This book examines teachings by many Christians that often trigger confusion. The author shares her walk through the valleys of questions and her quest for truth. She examines many questions from those with whom she has provided emotional support. Most importantly, she offers hope and steps to healing for those who are hurting. She shares practical ways to live with daily challenges and struggles. The author discusses how she found purpose in the midst of her pain. The most exciting truth: the journey, no matter how much crap it contains, does not need to be traveled alone. An honest and motivating look at navigating life's challenges, Moliterno's Courage to Deal with the Crap offers a refreshingly candid take on overcoming life's inevitable obstacles. We all face difficulties, and this book equips readers with the tools they need to turn those challenges into opportunities for growth. Written with humor, faith, and a message of hope, this book empowers readers to push through tough times and reach their full potential. (Rev. Chuck Balsamo, PhD)

Reverent Awe of God Jack Hartman, 2013-12 The Bible contains many instructions to fear God. When you fear God, you revere Him. You are in absolute awe of God because of His grandeur and His majesty. There are so many stars that astronomers cannot even begin to count the exact number of these stars. God not only knows the exact number of stars, but He also has a name for every one of the trillions of stars (see Psalm 147:4-5). God is omniscient. He knows every minute detail pertaining to every one of the billions of people on earth. God knows every thought in the minds of every one of the billions of people in the world. God knows every word that you speak. He even knows what you will say before you speak (see Psalm 139:1-4). If Jesus is your Savior, God lives in your heart. The same God Who created everything in the universe is with you throughout every minute of every hour of every day. God is your loving Father. You are His beloved child (see Ephesians 4:6 and I John 3:1). We pray that this book will help you to develop and deepen the intimacy of your relationship with God.
