The Frank C. Brown Collection of NC Folklore Newman Ivey White,Wayland D. Hand,2013-07-15 Frank C. Brown organized the North Carolina Folklore Society in 1913. Both Dr. Brown and the Society collected stores from individuals—Brown through his classes at Duke University and through his summer expeditions in the North Carolina mountains, and the Society by interviewing its members—and also levied on the previous collections made by friends and members of the Society. The result was a large mass of texts and notes assembled over a period of nearly forty years and covering every aspect of local tradition. members of the Society. Irish women's writing, 1878-1922 Anna Pilz,Whitney Standlee,2016-07-01 Irish women writers entered the British and international publishing scene in unprecedented numbers in the period between 1878 and 1922. Literary history is only now beginning to give them the attention they deserve for their contributions to the literary landscape of Ireland, which has included far more women writers, with far more diverse identities, than hitherto acknowledged. This collection of new essays by leading scholars explores how women writers including Emily Lawless, L. T. Meade, Katharine Tynan, Lady Gregory, Rosa Mulholland, Ella Young and Beatrice Grimshaw used their work to advance their own private and public political concerns through astute manoeuvrings both in the expanding publishing industry and against the partisan expectations of an ever-growing readership. The chapters investigate their dialogue with a contemporary politics that included the topics of education, cosmopolitanism, language, empire, economics, philanthropy, socialism, the marriage 'market', the publishing industry, readership(s), the commercial market and employment.

Amentha's War Brynn Dimino, 2006-10 Ginny screamed at the top of her lungs as the dragon, Shacklah, pulled her from Ricky's side and lifted her nearly twelve feet into the air. She tried to struggle and scream again but her throat had closed in tight. High school student Ginny Bullock and her best friend, Ricky Tanerman, could never guess how a simple walk on the beach could irrevocably change their lives. After they enter a strange cave and stumble into the magical land of Sempra, they embark on a journey fraught with peril. When Ginny learns that the life she once loved and the people she thought of as family are gone, she must use all her skills to ensure her survival. Rescued by a dragon from certain death, Ginny and Ricky explore a mystical world where nothing is as it seems. Survival becomes increasingly difficult as the peaceful landscape is shattered by dangerous magic and thirst for blood that culminates in armed conflict between the forces of good and evil. Hunted by dangerous beasts and figures cloaked in shadows, Ginny rides atop a mighty dragon as she follows a path of self-discovery, replete with bravery and fear, love and pain, and even the possibility of her own demise.
