Jean Prouvé "constructeur" Jean Prouvé,Centre Georges Pompidou,1990 Pour Le Corbusier, Prouvé est un ingénieur-architecte réunis en un seul homme. Sa maîtrise de la construction - du matériau au dessin, et du dessin au montage en atelier des premiers éléments de série - inscrit l'architecture dans le circuit moderne de la production. Il exerce encore une influence considérable sur la jeune génération d'architectes qui voient en lui un modèle de l'intégration de la technologie à la construction.
