Internet Applications in Product Design and Manufacturing George Q. Huang,K.L. Mak,2012-12-06 In recent years, the importance of Internet and World Wide Web (WWW) technologies in manufacturing industries has been rising very rapidly in a global context, the impact of which is deemed most profound ever since the Industrial Revolution. The waving interests in the electronic commerce and electronic business (e-commerce / e-business) have spread, from the heartland (product development) to the battlefield (shop floor), of manufacturing enterprises. The number of web applications is ever on the rise, and many practitioners are keen on trying these remote systems through web browsers to support their decision-making activities. Indeed, product design and manufacture professionals will soon be able to benefit from such remote services and supports commercially available on the Internet. The practice and performance of product development and realization are expected to make immense progress. Web applications in product design and manufacture signals the beginning of a new era of the digital manufacturing enterprise. However, many loopholes are found in the development and application processes because of domain complexity and technology sophistication, thus generating new challenges to both the developers and practitioners. A simple example is the difference in the user interfaces between web applications and traditional applications. Indeed, abundant issues need to be resolved before the full launch of digital manufacturing can come into being.

Improving an Engineering Change Request Management System to Improve Quality and Efficiency [electronic Resource] Jason J. Forehand,2011 This study reviewed the engineering change process using quality improvement tools such as process mapping and value stream mapping to increase efficiency and improve quality for the internal customers at Company XYZ. The literature review focused on important aspects of an engineering change system, how to properly create a process map, and successful ways to create and implement value stream mapping activities. The methodology of this project included the review of the existing engineering change process through data analysis and discovered areas of improvement from applying quality improvement tools such as value stream mapping. The results from the data analysis and quality improvement methods proved to be significant for increasing efficiency and communication of the engineering change process. The conclusion of this study reported on areas of discovery and recommendations for future study.
