Linguistische Gedichtanalyse Mit Morphologischem und Phonetischem Schwerpunkt Inga Hemmerling, 2008
Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2004 im Fachbereich Germanistik - Linguistik, Note: 1,0, Ruhr-Universität Bochum (Fakultät für Philologie), Veranstaltung: Dadaismus, Sprache: Deutsch, Abstract: Diese Arbeit beschäftigt sich mit der Analyse zweier Gedichte von Christian Morgenstern (Das große Lalula) und Hugo Ball (KARAWANE). Die Analyse soll keine literaturwissenschaftliche sein, sondern sie bezieht sich auf die sprachlichen Merkmale. Die Gedichte werden also unter sprachwissenschaftlichen Aspekten analysiert. Begrenzt habe ich mich in dieser Hinsicht auf die morphologischen und phonetischen Gesichtspunkte einer linguistischen Analyse. Der Dadaismus ist eine Art Anti-Kunst, welche gegen ein bürgerlich-konformistisches Kunstideal rebelliert. Zufall und Spontaneität wurden im Dadaismus zum Gesetz. Willkürliche Wort- und Silbenreihen wurden wie auch die Collagen zur Ausdrucksform des Dadaismus. Die inhaltlichen Aussagen der Werke waren nicht relevant, was zählte, war das Spiel mit der Form. Genau mit diesem Hintergrundwissen ist zu erkennen, dass die zwei Gedichte, welche ich hier behandle, typische Formen des Dadaismus sind. Denn auch bei diesen Gedichten geht es nicht um den Inhalt, sondern um die Form und um die Frage, wie mit Sprache gespielt wird. Dieser Aspekt wird hier in meiner Ausarbeitung der Präsentation nun näher ausgeführt. Christian Morgenstern ist ein deutscher Dichter, Dramaturg, Journalist und Übersetzer. Er wurde am 06. Mai 1871 in München geboren. Sein Vater war Landschaftsmaler, weswegen die Familie oft auf Reisen in neue Regionen war. Daraus ergab sich für Christian Morgenstern ein sehr unregelmäßiger Schulunterricht oder manchmal auch Privatunterricht in den verschiedenen Regionen, in der sich die Familie aufhielt. Er lebte bis 1881 bei seinen Eltern, bis seine Mutter starb. Daraufhin lebte er bei seinem Paten in Hamburg, kurz danach kam er aber ins Heim. Als sein Vater dann 1882 schon wieder heiratete und Professor an der königlichen Kunstschule wurde.

New Research on the Philosophy of Nicolai Hartmann Keith Peterson, Roberto Poli, 2016-01-29 The imposing scope and penetrating insights of German philosopher Nicolai Hartmann's work have received renewed interest in recent years. The Neo-Kantian turned ontological realist established a philosophical approach unique among his peers, and it provides a wealth of resources for considering contemporary philosophical problems. The chapters included in this volume examine his ethics, ontology, aesthetics, philosophy of mind, and philosophy of nature. They explore his ontology of values, autonomy and human enhancement, and law; his theory of levels of reality, space-time and geometry, the categories of temporality, causality, and "life," the question of realism, and social ontology. Others take inspiration from his aesthetic theory, ideas about education, and his embrace of the Socratic pathos of wonder. They bring his philosophy into conversation with that of his contemporaries, including Roman Ingarden and Konrad Lorenz's appropriation of Hartmann, as well as with the history of philosophy, including Plato's theory of recollection, pre-Socratic philosophy, and that of his Russian teacher Nikolai Lossky. Those familiar with Hartmann's wide-ranging systematic philosophy will benefit from these new engagements with his work, and those new to it will find them relevant to a number of current philosophical debates.

Ecologies of Writing Urs Büttner, Jacob Haubenreich, 2025-10-30 Drawing from case studies in 20th century German literature and theory, the contributors to this volume explore the multiple dimensions behind and alongside authorship that constitutes the ecology of writing. Over the last few decades, a resurgence of interest in historical and contemporary writing processes, fueled in part by the development of digital media, has developed alongside the emergence of new conceptions of material-human agency and the environment. What would it mean to apply these conceptions to the phenomenon of writing? As the essays in this volume explore, writing is never the purely mental activity of a solitary mind; it is inherently socially embedded and always more-than-human. Examining the early 20th century to the present, a period of dramatic media-technological transition in which writers become increasingly self-reflexive and responsive to the materials and changing environmental circumstances of their craft, Ecologies of Writing expands the frame to encompass the vast array of material, social, environmental, and economic influences that all inform the practice of writing. Case studies draw on German-language literature and theory, including works by Franz Kafka, Thomas Mann, and W. G. Sebald, and recent theories of human-material agency, media theory, and ecocriticism.

This Thing Called Theory Teresa Stoppani, Giorgio Ponzio, George Themistokleous, 2016-11-10 In the age of post-digital architecture and digital materiality, This Thing Called Theory explores current practices of architectural theory, their critical and productive role. The book is organized in sections which explore theory as an open issue in architecture, as it relates to and borrows from other disciplines, thus opening up architecture itself and showing how architecture is inextricably connected to other social and theoretical practices. The sections move gradually from the specifics of architectural thought - its history, theory, and criticism - and their ongoing relation with philosophy, to the critical positions formulated through architecture's specific forms of expression, and onto more recent forms of architecture's engagement and self-definition. The book's thematic sessions are concluded by and interspersed with a series of shorter critical position texts, which, together, propose a new vision of the contemporary role of theory in architecture. What emerges, overall, is a critical and productive role for theory in architecture today: theory as a proposition, theory as task and as a 'risk' of architecture.

Wireless Dada Kurt Beals,2019-11-15 Wireless Dada: Telegraphic Poetics in the Avant-Garde demonstrates that the poetics of the Dada movement was profoundly influenced by the telegraph and the technological and social transformations that it brought about in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. While telegraphy's impact on Italian Futurism and German Expressionism is widely acknowledged, its formative role in Dada poetics has been largely neglected. Drawing on media history and theory, avant-garde studies, and German literary studies, Kurt Beals shows how the telegraph and the cultural discourses that surrounded it shaped the radical works of this seminal avant-garde movement. The "nonsense" strain in Dada is frequently seen as a response to the senseless violence of the First World War. Beals argues that it was not just the war that turned Dada poetry into a jumble of senseless signals—it was also the wireless.
