By inviting them to explore different forms of personal prayer, you will encourage them to expand their image of God and their expectations of prayer. Restoring Family Connections Amy J.L. Baker, PhD, Paul R. Fine, LCSW, Alianna LaCheen-Baker, 2020-01-21 Broken relationships between adult children and their parents is a widespread phenomenon. While the parent-child attachment relationship is of critical importance for the child in the early years of life, the parent-child relationship continues to be a source of great importance over the course of the individual's life span for both the child and the parent. For adults and adult children who are estranged/alienated from each other, the pain and dissatisfaction never fully go away. Despite the prevalence of the problem of ruptured relationships, there are few resources available for mental health professionals working with this population. This book provides a tool for clinicians to turn to when they are working with adult children and their parents seeking to resolve conflict, improve communication, and enhance their relationships.
