We Are What We Sell Danielle Sarver Coombs, Bob Batchelor, 2014-01-15 For the last 150 years, advertising has created a consumer culture in the United States, shaping every facet of American life—from what we eat and drink to the clothes we wear and the cars we drive. In the United States, advertising has carved out an essential place in American culture, and advertising messages undoubtedly play a significant role in determining how people interpret the world around them. This three-volume set examines the myriad ways that advertising has influenced many aspects of 20th-century American society, such as popular culture, politics, and the economy. Advertising not only played a critical role in selling goods to an eager public, but it also served to establish the now world-renowned consumer culture of our country and fuel the notion of the American dream. The collection spotlights the most important advertising campaigns, brands, and companies in American history, from the late 1800s to modern day. Each fact-driven essay provides insight and in-depth analysis that general readers will find fascinating as well as historical details and contextual nuance students and researchers will greatly appreciate. These volumes demonstrate why advertising is absolutely necessary, not only for companies behind the messaging, but also in defining what it means to be an American.

Exploring Apocalyptica Frank Uekötter, 2018-08-11 Environmental alarmism has long been a political bellwether. Tell me what you think about the green apocalypse, and I'll tell you where you stand on the issues. But as the environmental heydays of the 1970s move into perspective, the time has come for a reassessment. Horror scenarios create a legacy whose effects have largely escaped attention. Based on case studies from four continents and the North Atlantic, Exploring Apocalyptica argues for a reevaluation of familiar clichés. It shows that environmentalists were less apocalyptic than commonly thought, and other groups were far more enthusiastic. It traces an interconnection with Cold War fears and economic depressions and demonstrates how alarmism faced limits in the Global South. It also suggests that past horror scenarios impose constraints on ongoing debates. At a time when climate change turns from a scenario into an experienced reality, this book charts paths for an age that may have already moved beyond the peak apocalypse.

Nexus Yuval Noah Harari, 2024-11-05 From the #1 New York Times bestselling author of Sapiens comes the groundbreaking story of how information networks have made, and unmade, our world. For the last 100,000 years, we Sapiens have accumulated enormous power. But despite all our discoveries, inventions, and conquests, we now find ourselves in an existential crisis. The world is on the verge of ecological collapse. Misinformation abounds. And we are rushing headlong into the age of AI—a new information network that threatens to annihilate us. For all that we have accomplished, why are we so self-destructive? Nexus looks through the long lens of human history to consider how the flow of information has shaped us, and our world. Taking us from the Stone Age, through the canonization of the Bible, early modern witch-hunts, Stalinism, Nazism, and the resurgence of populism today, Yuval Noah Harari asks us to consider the complex relationship between information and truth, bureaucracy and mythology, wisdom and power. He explores how different societies and political systems throughout history have wielded information to achieve their goals, for good and ill. And he addresses the urgent choices we face as non-human intelligence threatens our very existence. Information is not the raw material of truth; neither is it a mere weapon. Nexus explores the hopeful middle ground between these extremes, and in doing so, rediscovers our shared humanity.

Coca Cola HBC. A Case Study Aldridge Menzel, 2014-03-31 Seminar paper from the year 2011 in the subject Business economics - Operations Research, grade: A, University of Canberra, language: English, abstract: Coca Cola HBC is one of the largest manufacturers of non-alcoholic beverages in the European continent. The strategy of CCHBC centres on four key A's credo for maintaining the growing and constant demand of its products in the markets. (Verma and Boyer, 2011) These four A's are Availability- CCHBC aims that all its products are easily accessible by the target buyers. On its part, CCHBC aims to provide the right package, the right time and in the right location. Affordability - CCHBC also aims at offering affordable products to its customers and strive to develop a wide range of highly desirable, useful and high quality products in a right package that appeals to different market and for specific occasions and priced appropriately. (Mahadevan, 2011) Acceptability- CCBHC aims for complete control, flawless efficiency and reliable customer service and adapting the most feasible route-to-market, along with intensive knowledge of buyer requirements and needs. With such an approach, it is ensured that products launched by CCBHC are acceptable and well liked by customers in different markets. Activation- CCBHC believes in enhancing customer motivation and choose their products. To achieve this, the company aims to provide the right brand at the right price and in the right location. CCBHC aims to place these products in enticing and interesting point of sale displays and make them available through coolers placed wisely or through racks, vendors, fountains and making these products relevant to the purchasers. These are some of the ways through which CCHBC aims to boost customer demand. (Schroeder, 2003)

Coca-Cola's Marketing Challenges in Brazil David Gertner, Rosane Gertner, Dennis Alan Guthery, 2004 This case presents the challenges the Coca-Cola Company faced in Brazil. Not only was Coke up against its nemesis, Pepsi, it also had to compete with hundreds of local brands, many of which did not pay taxes. These local brands were generically called tubaínas. The case provides background information on the history of Coke in Brazil, trends in the Brazilian soft drink market, and on competition by Pepsi and the many local soft drink firms. In addition, Coke's strategies for competing are outlined. The student is asked to analyze the information presented in the case and to make recommendations to Coke on how to better compete in Brazil.

Coca-Cola Company. History, SWOT Analysis, Marketing Strategies Carol Nganga, 2014-09-25 Seminar paper from the year 2012 in the subject Business economics - Economic and Social History, grade: B, The University of Liverpool, language: English, abstract: Coca-Cola Company has a long history dating back to 1886, when John Pemberton made Coca Cola syrup at his back yard and carried them to Jacob's pharmacy for sale. In the year 1887, the founder of the Coca-Cola, John Pemberton sold the enterprise to another chemist, Asa Chandelier. Asa Chandelier, through his efforts, turned the Coca-Cola Company in an international path through aggressive advertisements and marketing. At the time, the company manufactured only one brand: the Coca-Cola. However, over the years, it now manufactures about 400 brands in over 200 countries. During the early years of production, the company sold the beverages in glasses, from a fountain in the Jacobs pharmacy. However, in late 19th century, two lawyers obtained permission from Chandelier to sell the beverage in bottles. This was the beginning of the Coca-Cola bottled beverage, which is now carried anywhere all over the world. Around this time, the company put up a competition for the design of the Coca-Cola bottle. An Indiana company won the tender to manufacture the Coca-Cola bottle. Their decision was convinced by the fact that the company manufactured a unique, decent looking bottle, which could be recognized in the dark. The shape is still retained by Coca-Cola Company to date. This step was geared towards isolating the Coca-Cola Company from other beverage companies because of its unique attributes. The bottle was to help the consumers identify the product. The company changed hands again in 1919 when the company was sold to Ernest Woodruff for $25. Woodruff later entrusted the company to his son Robert Woodruff in 1923. Robert was a particularly smart man in business and he is entrusted with the honor of introducing the Coca-Cola to the world Olympic Games in 1928. He also pioneered the packaging of the Coca-Cola drink
