Obsessive Love Lucy Soutter, Craig Buck, 1995

Objectless Relations Lucinda Claflin Mitchell, 1996 In an observational study of both clinical and non-clinical groups, individuals reporting experiences of obsessive love described: feelings of loss-of-control; powerlessness; acute feelings of rejection and shame; and a generalized sense of inner emptiness. A striking similarity was that, despite stated rejection by the object, there was an attitude of ambivalence toward the subject conveyed by mixed messages and alternating seductive/rejecting behaviors. Interviews revealed, as did patient self-reports, that the obsession is experienced as agonizing and seemingly interminable--the obsession may go on for months and years, often involving violent, self-destructive and/or suicidal ideation. the obsession resembles addiction in many ways. Using an object relations theoretical model to analyze the internal as well as external object relationships, the author notes a strong correlation between early object loss and later attachment difficulties. Studies indicate that the families-of-origin of such individuals have in common such features as: high incidence of alcoholism and depression on the maternal side of the family; neglect or explosiveness on the paternal side; and general marital distress. These individuals display depressive affect, addictive personality traits, and schizoid defenses (withdrawal from relationships which, in fantasy, protects the object from being annihilated or devoured). On a developmental continuum, this disorder is consistent with the oral incorporative phase, marked by overwhelming, unmet dependency needs and strong narcissistic features (undifferentiated self/object boundaries). the research suggests that there is a link between obsessive love and attachment disruption in the past year of life; these individuals have not successfully mastered tasks related to separation and individuation. the literature suggests that the experience of obsessive love may be regarded as an internalized transitional object (D. Winnicott). This author argues that the obsession is based upon morbid object relationships and, as such, cannot be considered transitional in a maturational sense, but may, with the help of psychoanalytic intervention, serve a transitional function. the author concludes that the obsession in obsessive love is dyadic, rather than monadic, by nature, and that dynamics of projective identification (M. Klein; T. Ogden) and extractive introjection (C. Bollas) play a significant role in unconscious communication between partners. Object relations treatment techniques are suggested.

Love's Obsession Betty McLain,2021-07-13 The mirror showed a girl her true love. That's what everyone said. Girls rushed to check their reflection, hoping to see if the stories were true. Not Doris. She had no interest in finding her true love. How was Doris supposed to trust in love? Derrick said he loved her, but when she did not return his feelings, his so-called love turned into an obsession that took the lives of her mother and step-father. Mark Black Feather was pleasantly surprised to see the magic mirror reveal the face of his true love. He never expected she'd be unhappy to see him, or that her life would be in danger from a madman. Can true love grow surrounded by tragedy and danger, or will one man's obsession end their love before it can truly begin? Betty's note: each book in the Love's Magic series is a standalone romance novel, and can be enjoyed even if you haven't read other books in the series. When Love Becomes an Obsession Tatiana Busan,2024-11-16 Are you too available to a man? Can't you be happy without him? Have you spent time waiting for a message that never arrives? Do you feel stuck in a relationship that causes you pain, but from which you cannot detach yourself? Do you feel that your happiness depends on him? When the need for love becomes the most important thing in your life, it leads to unhappiness. The need to be loved often pushes you to devalue yourself and fear abandonment, preventing you from enjoying a happy relationship. It's natural to want to share moments, thoughts, and emotions with the man we love. However, when this desire turns into an incessant need to always be in contact with him, then love risks losing its harmony and turning into obsession. It often happens in relationships that a woman, in the name of love, begins to give too much. Too much time. Too much energy. Too much availability. Too much forgiveness. Too much of herself. A healthy relationship is made up of two people who give to each other, not one person who takes and one who empties themselves. Only when you break the imbalance can love find room to grow. You think you are in love with this man, but in reality you are obsessed with him in an unhealthy way. Possessive jealousy, the desire to control him, and negative thoughts about him overwhelm you. When you suffer, you are convinced that it is true love. You can't eat, you can't sleep, and all you do is think about him. Obsessive love not only destroys your self-confidence, but also ruins your relationship. A man cannot fall in love if he feels that you are too dependent on him! To live better with this need for love, you must find your emotional independence. Your goal is to overcome your emotional dependence. To regain control of your emotions, you must work on your personal development. Investing in yourself means doing everything you can to gain self-confidence. The more you are able to cultivate a positive mindset and strong self-confidence, the more fulfilling your love life will be. This book is for you if you feel emotionally dependent on a man; live in fear of abandonment or rejection; accept less than you deserve for fear of being alone; lose yourself completely in another person and forget who you are. Discover how to free yourself from emotional dependence and regain your sense of self. In this book, you will discover:

and fascinating new book Labyrinth of Desire.

Derrick said he loved her, but when she did not return his feelings, his so-called love turned into an obsession that took the lives of her mother and step-father. Mark Black Feather was pleasantly surprised to see the magic mirror reveal the face of his true love. He never expected she'd be unhappy to see him, or that her life would be in danger from a madman. Can true love grow surrounded by tragedy and danger, or will one man's obsession end their love before it can truly begin? Love's Memory: Silas watched his family grow larger from all the marriages and children. He wondered when his time would come, but a part of his mind couldn't let go of a memory from long ago, of a beautiful girl. He called her his woodland sprite, but where had she gone, and would he ever see her again? May struggled against the unwanted advances of the man her mother wanted her to marry. She did not love him. Her memories were full of the vision of a boy she loved from afar, but her family had left that place long ago. She never expected to see him again, especially not in the reflection of the magic mirror. Love's Gamble: Widowed at a young age and left to raise a baby by herself, Lanie was abandoned by her family when she needed them the most. She worked two full time jobs to make ends meet. But she had her son. For her, that was enough. Then, as her fragile world began to crumble around her, a stranger swept in with the promise of a better life. Marcel knew all about true love. His family was full of stories of how magical the bond could be and how unexpectedly it could appear in one's life, so when he met the young waitress on his way back home, he recognized their connection instantly. Seeing her struggle, he opened his home and heart to Lanie and her son. But can she learn to trust in a future of hope and love, when the past has been so bleak? Love's Plea: Charise got together with her closest friends to have a good time and prepare for the wedding. But this restaurant was special: it showcased one of the three magic mirrors, capable of showing a girl her true love. All the girls took their turns at the mirror, and then it was Charise's turn. But what do you do when you are the bride, and the reflection you see in the mirror is not that of your soon to be husband? Love's Promise: Mona could use a little magic in her life. With a sick mom, younger siblings to look after, and a stepfather who worked hard to make ends meet, her life was far from magical. Those she knew who met their true love through the mirror saw a promise of a brighter future. Mona looked in the mirror time and again, with no luck. She saw a reminder of her own loneliness and dismal life. Then, one day, the image changed.
