

We Are All The Same

Laura Lincoln Maitland

We Are All Differently the Same Darren Hobden, 2013-05 As far back as Darren Hobden can remember he has always had a specific memory. As a small child he understood the importance of it but kept it concealed. After 44 years of keeping this memory to himself, due to the fear of being ridiculed or being shunned, Darren decided to share this very enlightening and powerful experience. With support from family and friends Darren has put into words the amazing knowledge, insights and learnings from his memory. We are all Differently the Same explains the teachings from Darren's memory and how we may all learn to accept one another regardless of any perceived differences among us, as we did Prior Life. It can be helpful to those who have lost loved ones or anyone who may be afraid of dying themselves as we learn about the special and wondrous place that Darren calls The Room. This book is not about a previous life but instead educates us on the missing link in the chain of life - Prior Life. Please open your mind in reading this book as Darren has opened his mind in writing it, sharing with you a lifelong memory that is secret no more ...

We All Wrote on the Same Outhouse Walls Larry M. Farrar, 2003 We All Wrote on the Same Outhouse Walls is a warm-hearted very humorous book about the many joys and few sorrows of growing up during the 40s and 50s in a small town exiled in the Appalachian foothills. The book is about the author's small hometown which The Wall Street Journal described as Intact but decaying: pure 19th Century. The Journal suggested that the town could be On the scale of Williamsburg, but the town folks Don't want to be preserved, saved or otherwise bothered by outsiders, no matter how good their intentions. This priceless narrative tells about first grade in a one-room schoolhouse called Possum Hollow, a splendid misspent youth, and a homespun education which was acquired while working in a country store and hanging out in a poolroom. The hilarious description of an endangered time and place is about colorful and unforgettable characters. It tells memorable stories and folklore which began with I mind the time, and ended somewhat in borderline disbelief, but always in laughter. It's about nicknames, front porches, and coon dog field trials after church. And it's about the down-home wit, sayings and opinions that made the personalities and their town so engaging. The book also tells what the old timers, the orthopedic set, would tell you, whether asked or not, about the 60s movement, the break-up of the traditional family, the present day media, and the theory of victimization. Their opinions, today, would be unfashionable to some, but refreshingly politically inappropriate to others. Not that the author's small hometown was perfect or blameless. The good old fashioned behavior by some of getting drunk on Saturday night and going to church on Sunday was alive and well. The town has its assortment of saints and sinners. But when it came to values and time-honored beliefs which now seem out-dated, back then small towns had them. maybe that's what one of John Steinbeck's characters in Mice and Men pointed out when the character commented, There's nothing wrong anymore. We All Wrote on the Same Outhouse Walls is a must read for all of you who will enjoy a nostalgic visit back to your youth or your small hometown. It will bring back happy memories of a better time and make you glad that you were there. The book is also a must read for young readers who wonder what it was really like, and if they really were the good old days. Most of all the book is for those of you who just want a good laugh.

Inside We Are All the Same Joan Linares,2025-04 A children's book, Inside We Are All The Same, teaches kids that even though we may look different on the outside, we are all the same on the inside. The book could be used to teach multicultural concepts, rhyming works, geography, five senses, self-worth and anti-bullying. The beautiful color pencil illustrations bring the pages to life.
