Christopher M. Lawrence

A Dowry of Blood S. T. Gibson, 2022-02-23 'DARK, LUSH AND HEARTRENDINGLY ROMANTIC' Lyndall Clipstone, author of Lakesedge This is my last love letter to you, though some would call it a confession. . . A deliciously dark retelling of Dracula, A Dowry of Blood is a sensual story of obsession, desire and the lengths we will go to protect the ones we love. Saved from the brink of death by a mysterious stranger, Constanta is transformed from a medieval peasant into a bride fit for an undying king. But when Dracula draws a cunning aristocrat and a starving artist into his web of passion and deceit, Constanta realizes that her beloved is capable of terrible things. Finding comfort in the arms of her rival consorts, she begins to unravel their husband's dark secrets. With the lives of everyone she loves on the line, Constanta will have to choose between her own freedom and her love for her husband. But bonds forged by blood can only be broken by death. Praise for A Dowry of Blood: 'A dizzying nightmare of a romance that will leave you aching, angry and ultimately hopeful' Hannah Whitten, author of For the Wolf 'Atmospheric and lush. . . it will haunt you in the best possible way' Genevieve Gornichec, author of The Witch's Heart 'Ornate. Delicious. Hedonistic. Bloodied and bejewelled. This isn't a book; this is a feast' Reader Review 'Gorgeous retelling of Dracula's Brides. . . lush, incisive prose with gorgeously lyrical turns of phrase' Reader Review 'This is a story that is just as breathtaking as it is heart wrenchingly beautiful' Reader Review

Blood and Oranges Christopher M. Lawrence, 2007 A compelling account of the intersection of globalization and neo-racism in a rural Greek community, this book describes the contradictory political and economic development of the Greek countryside since its incorporation into the European Union, where increased prosperity and social liberalization have been accompanied by the creation of a vulnerable and marginalized class of immigrant laborers. The author analyzes the paradoxical resurgence of ethnic nationalism and neo-racism that has grown in the wake of European unification and addresses key issues of racism, neoliberalism and nationalism in contemporary anthropology.

May God Avenge Their Blood Rachmil Bryks, 2020-05-20 May God Avenge Their Blood: a Holocaust Memoir Triptych presents three memoirs by the Yiddish writer Rachmil Bryks (1912-1974). In Those Who Didn't Survive, Bryks portrays inter-war life in his shtetl Skarzysko-Kamienna, Poland with great flair and rich anthropological detail, rendering a haunting collective portrait of an annihilated community. The Fugitives vividly charts the confusion and terror of the early days of World War II in the industrial city of Łódź and elsewhere. In the final memoir, From Agony to Life, Bryks tells of his imprisonment in Auschwitz and other camps. Taken together, the triptych takes the reader on a wide-ranging journey from Hasidic life before the Holocaust to the chaos of the early days of war and then to the horrors of Nazi captivity. This translation by Yermiyahu Ahron Taub brings the extraordinary memoirs of an important Yiddish writer to English-language readers for the first time.

'Blood Is Thicker Than Water' – Non-Royal Consanguineous Marriage in Ancient Egypt Joanne-Marie

Robinson, 2020-06-25 This volume presents, for the first time, evidence for non-royal consanguineous marriage in ancient Egypt. The evidence was collated from select sources from the Middle Kingdom to the Roman Period, and it has been used to investigate the potential economic and biological outcomes, particularly beyond the level of sibling and half-sibling unions.

Blood, Land, and Sex Lyda Favali, Roy Pateman, 2003-06-18 In Eritrea, state, traditional, and religious laws equally prevail, but any of these legal systems may be put into play depending upon the individual or individuals involved in a legal dispute. Because of conflicting laws, it has been difficult for Eritreans to come to a consensus on what constitutes their legal system. In Blood, Land, and Sex, Lyda Favali and Roy Pateman examine the roles of the state, ethnic groups, religious groups, and the international community in several key areas of Eritrean law -- blood feud or murder, land tenure, gender relations (marriage, prostitution, rape), and female genital surgery. Favali and Pateman explore the intersections of the various laws and discuss how change can be brought to communities where legal ambiguity prevails, often to the grave harm of women and other powerless individuals. This significant book focuses on how Eritrea and other newly emerging democracies might build pluralist legal systems that will be acceptable to an ethnically and religiously diverse population.

Captain Blood Rafael Sabatini, 1924

Blood & Belief Raymond A. Mentzer, 1994 The story told here is one of adaptation and determination as the petty noble Lacger family of Castres in southwestern France evolved - and sometimes advanced their position - through the troubled times of the Reformation and Wars of Religion, an all too brief period of tolerance, and the later proscription, of Protestantism. In the early 1500s, the family emerged from obscurity; some later attained influential posts and amassed considerable fortunes. While some family members embraced Catholicism for professional gain, family concerns were still important, as many then bequeathed their fortunes to Protestant family members. Raymond Metzger focuses on this one Huguenot family as a paradigm for his study of the role of religious ideology in family cohesiveness in ancient regime France. The Lacger are an especially apt example of their class because the family was plainly unspectacular and; therefore, wholly representative of a more common experience. In tracing the evolution of the Lacger over the early modern period, Mentzer illuminates the familial, cultural, and economic situation of the French provincial nobility, particularly as it relates to France's shifting policies toward its Huguenot population. Blood and Belief underscores the endurance of a confessional minority in the remarkably well-documented history of a single family and thus brings fresh understanding to the broader questions surrounding family resilience in early modern Europe. As he discusses the preservation of family wealth, the role of marriage, and education and professional life, through numerous examples culled from archival sources, Mentzer reconstructs a distinctive milieu and offers a fascinating and accessible glimpse of family life.

An Education in Malice S. T. Gibson, 2024-02-13 Sumptuous and addictive, An Education in Malice is a dark academia tale of blood, secrets and insatiable hungers from S.T. Gibson, author of the cult hit A Dowry of Blood. Deep in the forgotten hills of Massachusetts stands Saint Perpetua's College. Isolated and ancient, it is not a place for timid girls. Here, secrets are currency, ambition is lifeblood, and strange ceremonies welcome students into the fold. On her first day of class, Laura Sheridan is thrust into an intense academic rivalry with the beautiful and enigmatic Carmilla. Together, they are drawn into the confidence of their demanding poetry professor, De Lafontaine, who holds her own dark obsession with Carmilla. But as their rivalry blossoms into something far more delicious, Laura must confront her own strange hungers. Tangled in a sinister game of politics, bloodthirsty professors and magic, Laura and Carmilla must decide how much they are willing to sacrifice in their ruthless pursuit of knowledge. For more from S.T. Gibson, check out A Dowry of Blood.

Blood and Circuses Lex Marinos, 2014 In his early years on TV he was the wog who was always being told to Leave the money on the fridge by Ted Bullpitt in Kingswood Country. And ultimately he became the majestic patriarch, Manolis, in The Slap. Between times, he attended the birth of Triple J, ran the rugby league touchlines for ABC Sport, was a panelist on Andrew Denton's Live & Sweaty, offered drolleries on Strictly Dancing, and directed one of the segments at the opening ceremony of the Sydney Olympics, as well as appearing in umpteen films and plays. This is the wry and charming story of a young Greek Australian boy, whose family ran a cafe in Wagga Wagga in the 1950s, and who dreamed of making his life in the theater. It is a vivid account of a life lived to the full, beautifully written by a much-loved Australian.
