Prodesse et delectare Norbert Kössinger, Claudia Wittig, 2019-12-02 The Horatian formula prodesse et delectare was extremely influential in the production of texts across various languages and genres. While indeed didactic elements can be attested to in almost any medieval text, and while medieval literature displays a range of possibilities to teach and instruct, the scope of the present volume is more closely focused on explicitly didactic literature. This volume combines contributions that analyse didactic literature in high medieval Europe from different vantage points. They open new perspectives on education as a working principle or legitimizing strategy in the heterogeneous forms of writing intended to convey knowledge. This broad thematic, linguistic and geographical scope enables us to view didactic literature as the universal phenomenon it was and prompts us to understand its influence on many aspects of society in high medieval Europe and beyond. While the contributions explore case studies predominantly from this period of transition and the expansion of the categories of knowledge, they also trace some of these developments into the later Middle Ages to spotlight the lasting influence of high medieval teaching and learning in literature. The way medieval writers combine ‘the pleasant’ with ‘the useful’ is this book’s main question.

Early Framers of Tourism Knowledge, Volume III Metin Kozak, Nazmi Kozak, 2023-06-27 This book emphasises the work, the remarkable contributions, and the lifetime achievements of internationally respected scholars who have made lifelong contribution to advancing tourism studies and the dissemination of tourism-based knowledge and education across the world. Strengthening a field and its ability to form the own traditions is undoubtedly possible with a bridge to be established between the past, present and future. The capacity of research carried out today and in the future is built on the outputs of education and research completed in the past, adding new links to the chain. The history of tourism studies and education dates to the early years of the 20th century and began recording a momentum in its second half. There is, therefore, a lot more to do in terms of the institutionalization of such a young and dynamic field and this book aims to introduce tourism scholars with their widest geographical representation, dating from the first years of tourism research back in the early 1900s. Volume III of IV includes tributes to 20 scholars who have defined tourism as an object of academic study, established its foundations and organisations, and widened its scope to encompass thousands of empirical studies. Each of these volumes contains different profiles thereby bringing 80 of the pioneers in tourism more vividly to life. This book was originally published as a special issue of Anatolia: An International Journal of Tourism & Hospitality Research.

Addressing Methodological Challenges in Interpreting Studies Research Claudio Bendazzoli, Claudia Monacelli, 2016-06-22 Using interaction as a fundamental springboard, Addressing Methodological Challenges in Interpreting Studies Research showcases the major breakthrough in interpreting studies made by investigating community interpreting and the inherent high degree of participant interaction. The book adds a 'reflexive' twist, and espouses the notion of the analyst as not separate from the context under study. After looking at dialogue interpreters, cast away from the carpeted walls of sound-proof booths and deprived of the spotlighted lectern-podium position at high level fora, it has become clear that the interpreter's invisibility, not to mention their neutrality, is uppermost in the minds of both users and providers in terms of expectations. Among all the participants in any 'mediated' communicative situation, it is the interpreter who is exceedingly visible and potentially most influential in shaping and coordinating the ongoing exchanges. The book proposes that a similar view be applied to researchers engaged in interpreting research, especially in empirical investigations. Different forms of 'interaction' between researchers and the data in their studies are inevitable. This applies to every stage of their work, ranging from all the pre-analysis activities to the analysis itself, and the post-analysis stage, in which results are disseminated in the research community and, possibly, the target population. This volume will stand to benefit all those who work with researching language issues, not only because of the various approaches covered in the volume, but also because of the ways in which they are reframed as a result of shifting contextual constraints.

Guide of Modern Rome Irene De Guttry, 2001

L'architettura INA Casa (1949-1963) AA. VV., 2016-03-20T00:00:00+01:00 Il volume raccoglie alcuni risultati della ricerca La costruzione moderna in Italia: il patrimonio edilizio dell'INA Casa (1949-1963). Modi e tecniche per la conservazione ed il riuso che ha affrontato due questioni sempre più attuali: la conoscenza e la tutela dell'architettura del Novecento. Lo studio è stato condotto con l'obiettivo di individuare i caratteri più tipici della 'costruzione INA Casa' e di formulare linee di indirizzo preliminari al progetto di conservazione e recupero. Utilizzando fonti bibliografiche, documenti e disegni d'archivio, sono state ripercorse le fasi esecutive del cantiere e, attraverso rilievi diretti ed elaborazioni grafiche originali, sono state restituite, fin nel dettaglio, le soluzioni tecniche adottate. Questa documentata ricognizione su un momento particolare nell'evoluzione dell'edilizia in Italia - la fase di passaggio dalla ricostruzione postbellica al boom economico - costituisce un tassello della storia della costruzione moderna alla cui definizione gli autori lavorano da diversi anni. Il libro è articolato in due parti. Nella prima sono raccolti 31 studi su altrettanti quartieri. Qui vengono analizzati i caratteri architettonici e costruttivi degli edifici e vengono confrontati lo stato originario e quello attuale, risultato del degrado fisico e delle trasformazioni edilizie e urbane. Nella seconda parte, sulla base dell'analisi precedente, per una selezione di 12 casi sono presentate linee strategiche per l'intervento di recupero. Queste non sono configurate come programmi operativi esaurienti o come compendio di regole, ma come sondaggi parziali: ipotetici inizi di un iter progettuale che può trovare senso e valore solo nel suo concreto attuarsi.
